Retiring

Times

Volume 1 Number 1 Active Teachers Spring 2001

Message from Vermont State Treasurer James Douglas

You are probably aware that this past year has been quite a roller coaster ride in the financial markets. I would like to take this opportunity to put your mind at rest about the integrity of your pension system.

The pension fund is diversified over several different asset classes, such as stocks, bonds, and real estate. These asset classes behave very differently from one another. Thus, some asset classes will grow rapidly in value while others are sluggish or even going down. Overall, however, the total value of the pension fund increases almost every year, exactly what we hope to achieve through diversification.

Diversification really does work. Despite the market volatility, your pension fund has performed well, returning 3.44% during 2000. This is well above the median return of 0.63% among public funds around the country. Over the past five years, the average annual return has been 13.39%, with total assets in the fund at year's end of $1.18 billion. During that same period the fund distributed $39 million in benefit payments. Thus, the uncertainty in the capital markets is not affecting the security of pension benefits for the State's teachers.

As you may know, legislation has been introduced to provide for more choice among pension benefits. The bill provides for an optional Defined Contribution (DC) plan for teachers to be available in January 2003. Up to now, only exempt State employees and some municipal employees have had this option available to them. The DC plan is a 401(a) plan, which is very similar to either a 401(k) or 403(b) plan, to which the employer contributes too. Those teachers who choose DC would control their own pension assets and thus have more responsibility for their retirement. A DC plan is

(continued on page 2)

Message from Retirement Operations Director Cynthia Webster

This newsletter represents the first in our continuing series of quarterly newsletters. The newsletters will bring timely and useful information to you regarding the Vermont State Teachers' Retirement System (VSTRS).

Regular quarterly newsletters are now possible due to the creation of a new position within the State Treasurer's Office. I would like to welcome Joe Bahr, our new Information and Education Specialist who, among other tasks, will be responsible for producing these newsletters. In his capacity as Editor, Joe will be bringing you news of current activity, as well as important on-going education of the various benefits available through your retirement plan.

We hope to feature one to two specific benefit provisions each quarter and provide you with an in-depth explanation of how the benefit also portable – if you leave your job, your retirement assets can continue to grow in a qualified investment plan. When you retire, these assets are yours.

(continued on page 3)

Message (continued from page 1)

Legislation is pending to increase the State's portion of health care premiums for retirees. The bill passed out of the House with smaller increases than those proposed by the Governor, but is now being debated in the Senate and could have further changes.

In addition, the House-passed budget includes a larger contribution to the pension system than the Governor recommended. It's not as much as I requested, based on our actuary's calculation, but it's the first time in years that a legislative chamber has appropriated more than was included in the Governor's budget.

The Treasurer's Office will keep you posted on new developments with your Defined Benefits plan, Defined Contribution legislation and health care benefit changes. Remember, we are here to help. You are always welcome to get in touch with us if we can be of any assistance.

James H. Douglas State Treasurer Chair, State Teachers' Retirement System of Vermont

New "Air Time" Option for Earlier Retirement

Want to retire early? Then recent changes in the retirement program will interest you. Last year, the Legislature approved the purchase of

Retirement Board of Trustees

Chair: James Douglas, Vermont State Treasurer

Ex Officio Members: K. Blythe McLaughin, Dept of Banking, Insurance, Securities & Health Care Administration Vaughn Altemus, Dept of Education

Teachers: John Harris Joe Mackey

Retired Teacher: Jay Kaplan

Director of Retirement Systems: Cynthia Webster 133 State Street Montpelier Vermont 05633-6901 828-2305 or 1-800-642-3191 (In-State)

Retiring Times is published quarterly by the Vermont State Teachers' Retirement System. Editor: Joseph Bahr

up to five years of "air time" for anyone who had 25 or more years of retirement credits. The purchase of these years would allow a teacher to receive a normal retirement with 30 years of service, regardless of his or her actual age.

Here is how "air time" works. First, you must have at least 25 years towards retirement before you can purchase any "air time." You can earn these 25 years by working as a teacher at a public school in Vermont for that length of time. Or you can combine teaching with the purchase of other types of service to obtain this 25-year plateau.

Among the types of service that are eligible for purchase are military service, the Peace Corps, VISTA, State or municipal employment, or teaching at any school – in or out of state, public or private – that was not part of the Vermont State Teachers' Retirement System. This includes time from a prior Vermont State Teachers' Retirement System membership.

Two restrictions apply to this time. First, no individual can purchase more than 10 years of non-military service plus five years of military service. Second, you cannot purchase time for any previous employment that has benefits from another retirement system.

If any of these combinations of employment and service purchases give you 25 years of creditable time in the retirement system, then you can buy "air time." For "air time," you don't need any particular type of employment or service.

The cost of "air time" depends upon your age and annual salary. For this calculation, annual salary is the full-time equivalent of your income. Thus, if you work half time, you would double your pay as a teacher to get the full-time works and what it might mean to you as a VSTRS member.

(continued on page 3)

Webster's Message (continued from page 1)

We also intend to include a Question and Answer section as space permits where we will provide short, plain-English responses to frequently asked questions.

I would like to encourage you to write Joe and let him know what type of articles or specific questions you would like addressed in future newsletters. He may be reached at the following:

Joe Bahr, Information & Education Specialist Vermont State Treasurer's Office 133 State Street Montpelier, Vermont 05633

e-mail: jbahr@tre.state.vt.us

Our goal is to make this newsletter as helpful and educational as possible for you, our valued members.

Cynthia L. Webster Director of Retirement Operations

Air Time (continued from page 2)

equivalent. Two examples will give you the general idea.

If your age is 50 and you have an annual salary of $40,000, then a single year of "air time" would cost about $6,600. The approximate cost of five years of "air time" would be $33,000. (To obtain the exact cost, you would have to speak with the retirement office.)

However, if your age is 45 and you have an annual salary of $40,000, then a single year of "air time" would be only $5,850. Five years would cost only $29,250. To purchase five years of "air time," this younger individual would pay almost $4,000 less.

The difference in the purchase price for "air time" is determined by actuarial estimates of the cost to the retirement system. Your purchase price – with interest and other earnings – must cover the full cost of the additional pension benefit that you will receive for early retirement.

The interest and other earnings make a huge difference in your purchase price. For example, you may buy five years of "air time" for $30,000. But if you receive $10,000 annually from your pension, then you will be paid $50,000 for the additional five years of retirement. The $20,000 difference between what you pay and what you receive in additional retirement benefits is the additional earnings on your purchase price.

Early retirement is not for everyone. The people who take it will usually start a new career in a different occupation. The option, however, is one more benefit of your retirement plan.

Military Service Survey Results

Every member was mailed a survey on his or her military history in November. The results have now been tallied. These results include the State Employees', Teachers', and Municipal Employees' retirement systems.

Among active members, 577 people returned surveys. They had a total of 3,358 years of military service, including guards and reserves. Just over half of those years either are or could potentially go toward earning a military pension. Under current law, these years of military service cannot be used for a civilian government pension if they are already being used for a military pension.

(continued on page 4)

Military Survey (continued from page 3)

Among retired members, 1,123 people returned surveys. They had a total of 5,498 years of military service, including guards and reserves. Just under half of all the years that were reported either are or could potentially go toward earning a military pension, and thus cannot be used for a civilian government pension.

The survey was one part of a comprehensive study on credit for military service in the retirement system. This study was ordered by the 2000 Legislature to determine how much military service is being used for retirement credit in Vermont, how that compares with the rest of the country, and whether any adjustments to current law should be considered.

The study resulted in four recommendations to the Vermont Legislature. First, Vermont law should be amended to permit individuals who served in the guards or reserves to earn credit towards both a military and civilian government pension for military service. Second, Vermont should provide a one-time stipend to beneficiaries of the State Employees' and Teachers' Retirement System who served in the military and met the legal eligibility criteria, but were unable to obtain credit prior to retirement. Third, Vermont should give credit towards retirement for all periods of absence to serve in the military – regardless of when served - if the individual returns to work within a specified period of time after military service. Fourth, Vermont should give members of the Municipal Employees' Retirement System an option to purchase military service comparable to the existing provisions for state employees and teachers, provided the option is cost-neutral to the retirement system. ("Cost neutral" means that the price of purchasing the military service time would – with interest and other gains in value – be able to pay for the increased pension benefit to the member.)

Vermont State Teachers' Retirement System 133 State Street Montpelier, VT 05633-6901

PRSRT STD U.S. Postage PAID Burlington, VT Permit No. 601